

Vice Principal's Interactive Session with the 2nd batch of newly admitted students 2021-22

Date: 12th December, 2021

The interactive session held on 12th December, 2021 was attended by one hundred ninety five students enrolled in various programmes. We chose to interact on a host of cross cutting issues that have become relevant in the changing scenario of higher education. They were informed in detail the facilities and support system available within campus and the responsibilities they have to shoulder during their time of pursuing higher education. The session offered a chance to come into terms with their individual capabilities and creative passion and tried to orient them with what should be their prime goals. It seems the young faces staring at me, innocent and robust though, fail to come to terms with the uncertainties looming large. Not without reasons, their faces reveal that the nation needs more concentrated focus on the questions of employability, peripheral human dignity. Saving the nation from the emerging evils of fundamentalism and fostering a sense of belonging to the pluralist ethos should be the immediate concern.

We also shared our views on the graduate attributes that do not rely on conventional notions of knowledge as a set of dissociated musings. Instead, an interface of knowledge and skill has been the call of the hour for which learning to live has to be evolved and explore every new opportunity in a balanced way.
